1. Introduction and Overview

1.1 Introduction

The Center for Social Work Research (CSWR), in partnership with the Ray Marshall Center for the Study of Human Resources (RMC), has undertaken the Texas Child Care Market Rate Survey 2010 as contracted by the Texas Workforce Commission (TWC) via IACS number 2909IAP014.

This report summarizes child care market rate data for the entire state of Texas and each of its 28 local workforce development areas (LWDAs). Three types of child care facilities were surveyed between June and December 2010, as indicated in the table below:

Table 1. Number of Respondents by Type of Child Care Facilities

Facility Type	Number of Respondents
Licensed Child Care Centers	1,886
Licensed Child Care Homes	639
Registered Child Care Homes	960
Total	3,485

The report includes four sections, followed by several technical appendices. The first section, this introduction, briefly describes the research methods used for this survey and provides an analytic overview of key findings.

The second section is comprised of four sub-sections: First, statistics describing the distributions of statewide market rates for child care are presented. Second, daily market rates for child care are presented for each LWDA by: type of facility, age group, and full-day vs. part-day status. In addition to the mean daily rates, the following percentiles are provided: 30th, 40th, 50th (median), 60th, 70th, and 75th. Third, tables for each LWDA include a summary of rate data by age group (collapsed across facility types); and fourth, additional tables for each LWDA summarize rate data by facility type (collapsed across age groups).

The third section consists of a percentile analysis that compares data on local areas' maximum allowable reimbursement rates with actual market rate distributions. This section first includes a presentation of maximum allowable reimbursement rates by LWDA by type of facility, age group, and part- or full-day care, followed by an analysis of the percentiles at which such rates will allow reimbursement. These analyses are presented in two groups: one for regular maximum reimbursement rates, and another for maximum ‘enhanced’ reimbursement rates that may be available to certain providers, depending on local rules.

The fourth section contains two sub-sections. The first section reports the percentages of respondents offering care at non-traditional hours, and transportation services offered by LWDA and facility type. Also included in this section are percentages of facilities with national accreditation and Texas Rising Star status, as well as two similar but distinct measures of the percentage of facilities serving any subsidized children, and the proportion of the enrolled children receiving a child care subsidy. The second sub-section includes percentages of non-sectarian providers (non-profit and for-profit), sectarian providers (non-profit and for-profit), and community-based organizations (both non-profit and for-profit).

1.2 Overview of Study Design

This discussion of the study design briefly describes the sampling technique, the interview process, and the analysis for the 2010 Child Care Market Rate Survey. A more detailed technical description of the analytic approach for the project is supplied in Appendix A. This section concludes with a brief analysis of trends by comparing results of this market rate survey to those of the previous survey, which was based on 2009 data and completed in early 2010.

Sample of Child Care Facilities

The study sample draws from a list of all 17,512 licensed and registered child care facilities provided by the Texas Department of Family and Protective Services (TDFPS) in April 2010. The list included three types of child care facilities in each of the 28 local workforce development areas (LWDAs):

- Licensed Child Care Centers (LCCCs),
- Licensed Child Care Homes (LCCHs), and
- Registered Child Care Homes (RCCHs).

A small statewide representative sample of 1,000 facilities was first chosen at random in order to provide greater statistical power for estimating statewide rates and trends, and to increase the precision of rate estimates for the largest local boards that provide the bulk of care in the state. In addition to that sample, we chose another random sample from the remaining facilities for estimating rates at the level of LWDA. For this latter sample, we chose a target number of each type of facility from every LWDA based on projections of the number needed to yield an average of 30 independent rate observations in full-day rate categories. Projections based on detailed response rates to the 2003 through 2009 surveys indicated that, on average, 94 LCCCs, 75 LCCHs, and 101 RCCHs per LWDA were needed to reach this goal. These target numbers were then increased by 8 percent to 27 percent for LWDA and facility type combinations that showed low response rates in recent surveys. The target number of facilities was then randomly selected from each LWDA, or if fewer providers were available in any given combination of LWDA and facility type, the entire population was selected (a complete census). Implementation of this sampling scheme resulted in all facilities of any type being selected from eight LWDAs: 3, 7, 12, 17, 19, 21, 25, and 27. A complete census of LCCHs was necessary in twenty-three LWDAs, and a complete census of RCCHs was necessary in nineteen LWDAs.

Before final local rates were estimated, data from the statewide sample were added to that from the local samples in their respective areas, and the weighting schemes (for estimating statewide rates) were adjusted accordingly. Due to changes in the estimation procedures, described in the small area estimation section of Appendix A, the number of rate observations collected by this design was adequate to provide stable rate estimates for all LWDAs, without needing to rely on rates from adjacent areas or any other kinds of estimates or approximations.

Some providers were excluded. Head Start facilities were excluded before the sample was drawn and facilities whose only service was drop-in care were excluded at the time of the interview. Head Start facilities do not charge parents directly. Facilities providing only drop-in care charge very high hourly rates and are not usually used by employed parents for regular care. Likewise, kindergartens and summer camps were not included in the survey.

Telephone Interviews

Before the telephone interviews began, each facility in the sample received a letter – in both English and Spanish – explaining the project’s goals and objectives, as well as the confidentiality provided to respondents and the voluntary nature of participation.

Research staff members conducted the interviews between June and December 2010. They received detailed training, as well as ongoing supervision by advanced graduate students and the project manager.

Surveys for home-based and center-based facilities covered similar topics. However, home-based facilities provided detailed information concerning each child under their care (age, exact schedule of care, and rate charged), whereas center-based facilities provided rates by age group and by whether care was full-day or part-day. Facilities were asked to provide information about the following topics:

1. Hours of operation and vacation schedules,
2. Enrollment and rates for care provided for each age group:
 - Full-day rate
 - Part-day rate (six hours or less per day)

Rate data were gathered for children in various age groups, using the age group cutoffs the centers themselves used to set rates. These data were collapsed into the following standard age groups for reporting:

- Infants (0-17 months),
 - Toddlers (18-35 months),
 - Pre-schoolers (36-71 months), and
 - School-age children (72 months and over).
3. Additional charges (registration/activity fees) and transportation,
 4. Administrative categories (sectarian/non-sectarian and community-based, for-profit/non-profit), and
 5. Presence of national accreditation (e.g. NAEYC accreditation) or of Texas Rising Star provider status.

The majority of interviews were conducted in English. However, a number of interviews were conducted in Spanish and Vietnamese. The team included bilingual staff members, so that no delay would occur when we reached a non-English speaking provider. Two Vietnamese speakers and four Spanish speakers were part of the team.

A six-station call center at CSWR operated between 8:00 AM to 8:00 PM from Monday through Friday. Computer Assisted Telephone Interviewing (CATI) software was used to facilitate the interviewing. The CATI software contained a database with basic information about each facility in the sample (facility name, LWDA, phone number, facility identification number). The CATI program checked that at least four attempts were made to contact each center and kept a record of those phone numbers to which no further calls should be made (for example: wrong number, refusal to participate in the interview, or telephone not in service).

Analytic Approach

The technical appendix provides a detailed account of the analytic approach taken in producing the rates in this report. It is particularly important to note, however, that virtually all of the daily market rate percentiles and other statistics presented in this report are based on large and statistically reliable sample sizes. Even in the most scarce categories of care, such as part-day infant and toddler care in LCCHs, and part-day infant care in RCCHs, the numbers of rates gathered were sufficient for estimating stable rates.

Because different types of facilities tend to set their rates differently, analysis of center-based rates was based on the rates for a category of care (for example, full-day care for toddlers), while the rates for home-based care (LCCH and RCCH) were determined by the amounts charged for individual children. That is, as mentioned earlier, in interviews with centers the researchers asked for the rates charged for a particular age group following a particular schedule. In contrast, researchers asked home-based facilities for the age and rate charged for each individual child.

After the data were collected, all rates that appeared extremely high or low (known as outliers) were identified, and researchers individually checked each rate report and corrected any errors they found. Subsequent to these corrections, a small portion of the most extreme outliers remaining in the sample were corrected to remove their excessive influence on statistical measures of the rates distributions. In addition, similar procedures were implemented to detect instances in which the number of slots reported for a given rate was too extreme, whether too high or too low, and to correct these extremes to more reasonable values. In general, as one might expect in such a large and diverse state, extreme rates, whether at the low or high end of the scale, were typically the result of unusual services provided by an individual facility and/or variations in subsidies and financing, rather than research error.

Analysis and Trends: Market Rates and Other Statistical Descriptions

The basic outcomes for this report are presented in two sections: the first provides the child care rates; the second describes the prevalence of services and financial and organizational arrangements among child care facilities. Several interesting trends emerge from this analysis.

The data and analysis in this report are voluminous. The primary tables of daily child care market rates that form the next section of this report give seven statistics for each of four age groups in each of two schedule types (part-day and full-day) in three types of facilities for each of the 28 LWDA Boards. These data yield a total of 4704 statistics. It is likely that in such a massive report, some anomalies will emerge in the numbers. A systematic analysis was done of all possible comparisons looking for common rate anomalies, such as when an older child rate significantly exceeds the corresponding rate for a younger child, or a part-day rate exceeds the corresponding full-day rate. However, with the changes to the estimation method for the 2010 survey (see small area estimation, Appendix A), none of these types of anomalies are present.

A comparison of the daily market rates reported in this 2010 survey to those observed in 2009 reveal several interesting trends that are evident on a statewide level.¹ Overall, across facility types and age groups, median daily rates actually decreased by about 1.9 percent during this period, or about -$0.35 per day, when compared to 2009 median daily rates. This slight decline in market rates stood in contrast to the typical annual rate increases of around five percent observed in the last few years.

This apparent decline in rates between 2009 and 2010 is actually a product of diverging trends among the different facility types, with rates declining among Centers and increasing among Registered and Licensed Homes:

- In Licensed Child Care Centers, median rates decreased by an average of 10.7 percent, or about -$2.37 per day.
- In Licensed Child Care Homes, median rates increased by an average of 5.3 percent, or about $0.88 per day.
- In Registered Child Care Homes, median rates increased by an average of 5.4 percent, or about $0.89 per day.

Changes in the market rates also varied by age groups of the children served, with rates declining for infants and increasing for school-age children:

- Median rates for infants decreased substantially, by an average of 9.7 percent, or about -$2.22 per day.
- Median rates for toddlers decreased slightly, by an average of 2.0 percent, or about -$0.39 per day.
- Median rates for pre-schoolers increased slightly, by an average of 0.7 percent, or about $0.12 per day.
- Median rates for school-aged children increased substantially, by an average of 7.4 percent, or about $1.10 per day.

¹ Median rates are compared over time as the better measure of central tendency, though higher percentiles may be deemed more appropriate for rate-setting. Comparisons were made of all 672 median rates (28 areas multiplied by 24 rate categories) reported in this 2010 survey versus the same rates from the latest (2009) survey, and are weighted to be representative of care provided on a statewide basis.

Daily rates for full-day and part-day care converged somewhat, with full-day care rates decreasing and part-day care increasing:

- Median full-day rates decreased by an average of 5.2 percent, or about -$1.15 per day.
- Median part-day rates increased by an average of 3.0 percent, or about $0.46 per day.

Finally, comparing rates across regions, the Capital Area (LWDA 14) clearly has the most expensive child care in the state. In recent years the Capital Area had shared this status with North Texas (LWDA 4) and Dallas (LWDA 6), but rates in the Capital Area are now several dollars per day higher than those in Dallas/Ft Worth and their suburbs. The least expensive care in the state is in the Rio Grande valley in Middle Rio (LWDA 27) and Cameron County (LWDA 24).

Several other trends noted in previous surveys were again evident in this 2010 survey, and some appear to be getting worse. In recent years we have noted a short supply in most areas of the state of part-day infant care, as well as part-day care in general. The apparent increasing scarcity of these rates, which has also been noted anecdotally, prompted us to look more systematically at trends over time in facilities that offer part-day care. The following figures are based on percentages of facilities surveyed that offer part-day care for the various age groups. These are shown for each of the last five years of the market rate survey.

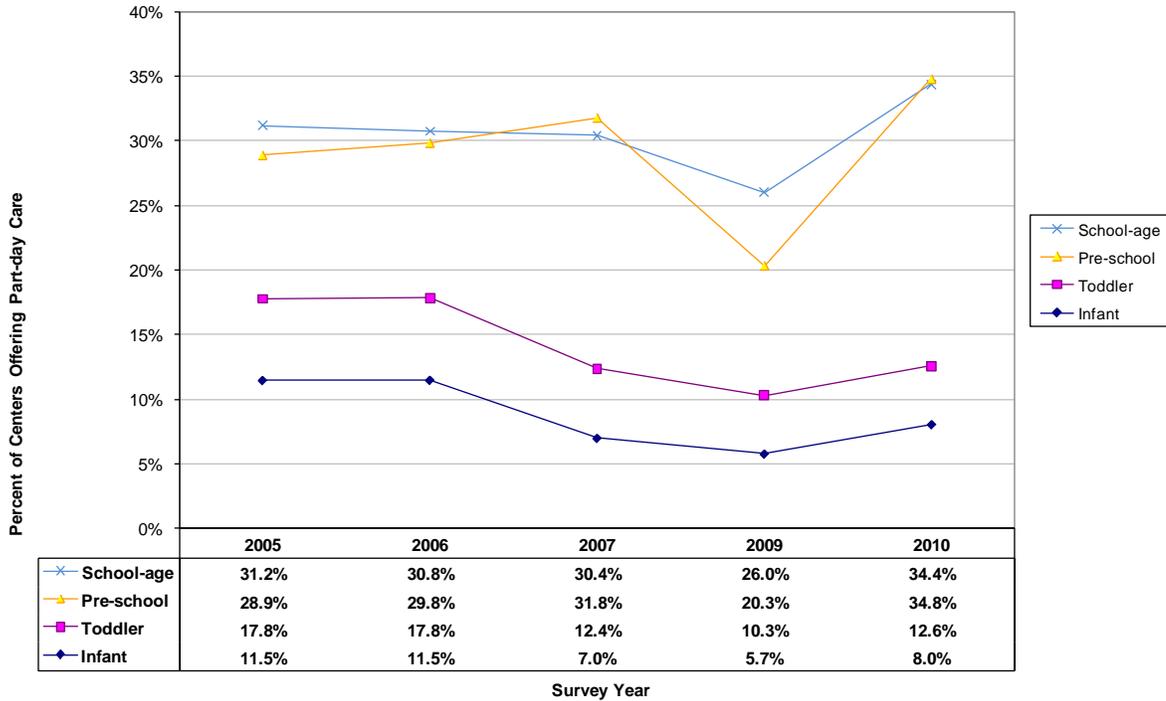

Figure 1 illustrates these trends for Licensed Centers. From this figure, it is apparent that not only are part-day infant and toddler care the least likely of the age groups to be offered, but that the shares of centers offering such care are declining over time. Even with a slight bump upwards in the 2010 survey, centers are about a third less likely to offer part-day infant or toddler care than they were in 2005. In contrast, shares of centers offering part-day pre-school or school-age care have fluctuated but show no general time trend.

Figure 2 shows similar trends over time for Licensed Homes. In this case the trends are more extreme and appear to apply to all age groups. Part-day care in licensed homes was scarce even in 2005, with fewer than ten percent of facilities offering such care to children of any age. By 2010, the share of facilities offering part-day care is closer to one percent, regardless of the age of the child.

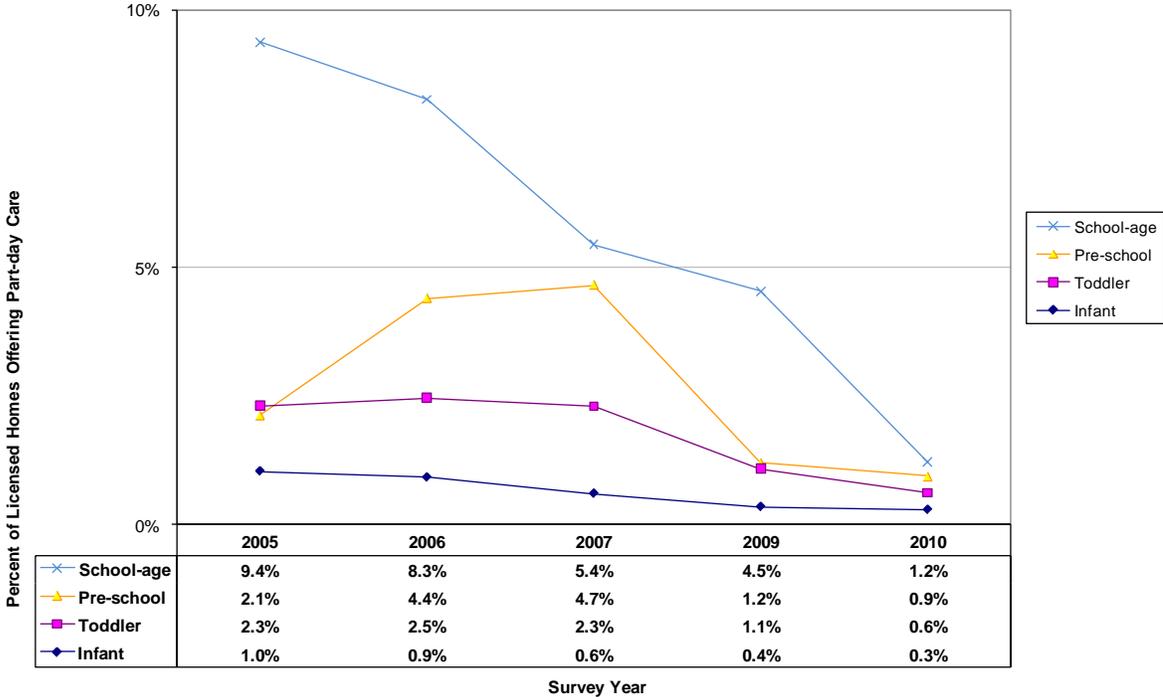

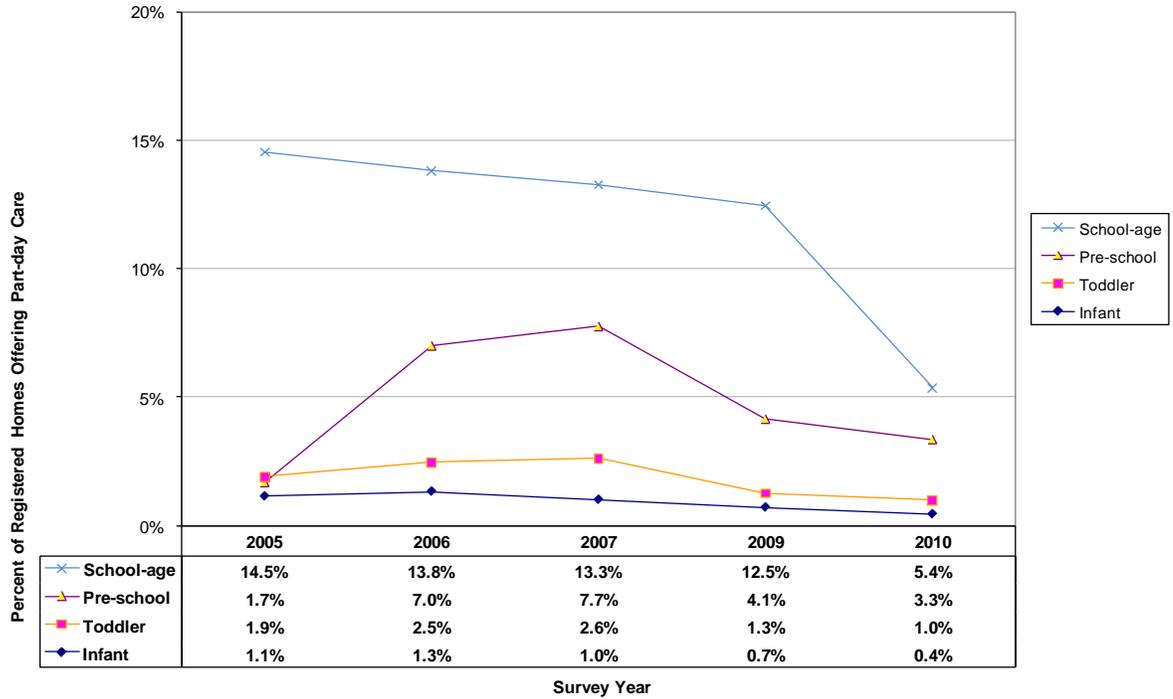

Figure 3 illustrates these trends for registered homes. As is the case with the other facility types, it appears that greater shares of registered homes offer care part-day care for older children. However, the general trend of declining rates of facilities offering part-day care over time is evident here as well.

The declining availability of part-day care helps to explain why part-day care has been getting more expensive in comparison to full-day care. According to the law of supply and demand, if supply of part-day care has been decreasing, and assuming no change in demand for part-day care, this should lead to increasing prices. Finally, because of these trends showing declining availability of part-day care, it is becoming increasingly difficult to gather sufficient rate data to estimate part-day rates for all areas. Appendix A describes efforts undertaken for the 2010 survey to estimate part-day rates in the categories of care in licensed and registered homes with the least availability of part-day care.

3. Child Care Daily Market Rates and LWDA Established Rates:
Percentile Analysis

Percentile Analysis

Maximum reimbursement rates in effect for Local Workforce Development Areas (LWDAs) in February 2011 for the various categories of child care were compared to the distributions of daily market rates gathered in the 2010 survey to determine at what percentile of the market such maximum rates would provide access. Similar comparisons were made for maximum enhanced rates, or the highest rate a local board will reimburse for care in facilities that, for example, receive more stars on the Texas Rising Star scale, or whatever other criteria are used locally to assign enhanced rates. Exact percentiles at which access is provided, whether for regular reimbursement or maximum enhanced rates, are listed for all categories of care in the tables below.

Several clarifications are in order. First, it should be noted that these percentiles at which access to care is potentially available should not be confused with percentiles at which care is reimbursed.² Second, it is possible that confusion could arise regarding the interpretation of several instances in these tables in which access to care is listed as the zero percentile. In these instances, the maximum reimbursement rate was found to be the same as or below the lowest rate gathered in the survey for that type of care.

Several general trends in the level of access potentially provided are presented below. Overall, across care types, facility types, age groups, and local boards, maximum reimbursement rates were found to provide access to the 35th percentile of market rates, while maximum enhanced rates provide access to the 44th percentile. Both of these market access numbers represent decreases relative to the same figures documented in the 2009 survey.

As shown in the following table, the most access is provided for center care, at around the 43rd percentile, or the 53rd percentile for maximum enhanced rates, while care provided in homes is potentially reimbursed at lower percentiles:

² To estimate the percentile at which care is reimbursed, corrections would need to be made for reimbursement below the maximum.

3.1.1. Percentile Analyses by Facility Type

Facility Type	Average maximum rate	Percentile (of max rate)	Average maximum enhanced rate	Percentile (of max enhanced rate)
Licensed Child Care Centers	$20.51	43	$22.05	53
Licensed Child Care Homes	$16.71	25	$18.04	34
Registered Child Care Homes	$16.16	29	$17.41	38

Part-day care was found to be potentially reimbursed at higher percentiles than was full-day care, as shown in the table below. It should be noted, however, that there is greater uncertainty surrounding market rates for part-day care. In many facilities, part-day care is not offered at all, and in most areas it can be difficult to find. Because of this, we have less confidence in the degree of differential access cited for the part-day/full-day distinction, as compared to the other trends noted here. We are still reasonably certain that greater access to part-day care is provided, but less certain regarding the extent of that differential access.

3.1.2. Percentile Analyses by Rate Type

Rate Type	Average maximum rate	Percentile (of max rate)	Average maximum enhanced rate	Percentile (of max enhanced rate)
Full-day	$19.17	33	$20.62	43
Part-day	$14.92	39	$16.14	49

Percentiles of the market rates to which maximum reimbursement rates potentially provide access were found to vary less by age groups of the children served:

3.1.3. Percentile Analyses by Age Group

Age Group	Average maximum rate	Percentile (of max rate)	Average maximum enhanced rate	Percentile (of max enhanced rate)
Infant	$21.21	38	$22.83	48

Pre-schooler	$17.18	34	$18.51	44
School-age	$15.70	33	$16.97	42

Finally, maximum reimbursement rates potentially provided access to percentiles of market rates that also varied by LWDA. The following table lists the percentiles by LWDA.

Appendix A. Data Analysis

It is important to note that all of the daily market rate percentiles presented in this report are based on large and statistically reliable sample sizes. Even in the most scarce categories of care, such as part-day infant and toddler care in LCCHs, and part-day infant care in RCCHs, the numbers of rates gathered were sufficient for estimating highly stable rates, due to innovations in the estimation methodology described below.

Levels of Analysis

Project researchers summarized the survey data and conducted analysis at several distinct levels. The most basic analyses were done at the level of individual providers. These results document the proportion of providers responding to the survey that offer various services (e.g., non-traditional hours, transportation), or that fall into different administrative categories (e.g., sectarian, community-based, and for-profit). The only exception to this rule is the item in section four that measures the “percent of enrollment that is subsidized,” which is analyzed at the level of the individual child. A similar item concerns the percentage of facilities that serve any subsidized children. When this number is higher than the “percent of enrollment” number, it indicates that the subsidized children in an area are widely dispersed among facilities, and when it is lower, it indicates that the subsidized children are relatively concentrated among a smaller number of facilities in the area.

The remaining analyses were conducted at either the rate observation level or at the level of the child care slot, as described below. Each center or home-based facility can contribute more than one rate observation to the analysis, and each rate observation can represent more than one slot. However, the nature of this relationship depends on the type of facility.

Daily market rates for licensed centers were gathered for all categories of care offered, regardless of whether any children were currently being served in such categories. The categories consisted of all possible combinations of age group (gathered for actual age categories in which each Center offered rates, but aggregated to the four standard categories for reporting) by full-time status (part-day or full-day). Thus, one center could contribute as many as eight independent rate observations, each representing any number of children (including zero). These rate observations were then weighted by the number of child care slots they represent (described below) when calculating market rate percentiles.

In contrast, market rates for home-based facilities, including Registered Homes and Licensed Homes, were gathered at the level of the individual child currently being served. Each child's age, detailed weekly schedule, and rates charged were gathered for purposes of calculating daily market rates. In this case, the individual children were treated as independent rate observations, and each facility could contribute as many as nine observations (or fewer depending on the facility type and number of children enrolled). Because of this, there was no need to differentially weight the rate observations when calculating the local market rate percentiles for home-based facilities: each child (or rate) received a weight equal to one.

For the analysis of Center rates, the number of child care slots for each rate category was determined in one of two ways. First, as done previously, for categories of care in which children were currently being served, the number of children in each category served as a proxy for the number of slots. Second, rate categories in which no children were currently being served were also included in the analysis, since they were also theoretically part of the market. This was done by estimating the number of slots for each of these rate categories with a formula that multiplies the number of children served at each facility by the average proportion of children, across all licensed centers, served in each rate category. Thus, for example, a facility that served 100 children and had an existing part-day infant rate schedule, but did not currently serve any part-day infants, would have its number of slots for this category of care estimated at two (100 child capacity X 2 percent of children served in the part-day infant category across all licensed centers). If the same facility served no part-day preschoolers, its number of slots would be estimated at seven (100 child capacity X 7 percent served in this category across all licensed centers). This method allows fuller use of the rate information gathered, especially for rare forms of care in which rate observations were otherwise scarce.

Statewide Estimation

For statistics conducted at various levels of analysis, special procedures were necessary in order to compute statewide versions of the tables. Due to the fact that smaller areas were over-sampled for this survey (meaning that facilities in these areas were more likely to be selected for the survey), a correction had to be applied in order to estimate statewide rates without over-representing facilities in these smaller areas. Similarly, it was also necessary to apply a correction because of over-sampling of Licensed Homes, which are much less common than Centers or Registered Homes. The correction involves computing weights that, when applied to the statewide analysis, equalize the probability that any given facility or rate might have been selected at random.

The calculation of weights for statewide estimation varies slightly depending on the level of analysis: facility level or rate level (see preceding discussion). For facility-level analyses, the weight is the inverse of the probability of selecting the facility at random. Thus, for small areas in which all facilities were selected, the weight would equal one. For larger areas in which, for example, 20 percent of facilities were selected, the weight would equal five (1 divided by 0.20). When these weights are applied to any given statistical analysis, the facility with a weight of five would count five times as much as the facility with a weight of one, and the result would be representative of the state as a whole. Similar procedures are used for the calculation of statewide rates, except in this case it is more complicated because each rate must be weighted according to its share of the statewide child care slots.

Small-Area Estimation

In many smaller LWDA's and for some exceptionally rare rate categories (particularly part-day care in homes) the number of rate observations would have been too small to estimate stable rates using traditional methods, even for the many areas in which the entire population of facilities had been sampled. For this reason, a new estimation methodology was developed in which parameters are estimated that fully characterize the distribution of rates in each category of care. These parameters are then applied, using an assumption of normality of the rate distributions, to estimate each rate percentile of interest. The primary advantage of this solution is that a medium to large sample size of rates is utilized to estimate each parameter, and thus the estimates based on this methodology are demonstrably more stable over time³, and they fall into the expected patterns more frequently.

The first step in this technique involved estimating area effects, or the average rate for each LWDA while statistically controlling for all other features of the rates involved in the estimation (including facility type, age group, and rate type). The average rates for all 28 LWDAs are listed in Table A-1. Note that Capital Area (LWDA 14) has the highest rates, and Middle Rio Grande (LWDA 27) and Cameron County (LWDA 24) have the lowest rates in the state.

³ The new estimation method was also applied to rates from the 2007 and 2009 surveys. Over this interval the typical rate estimated using the new method was found to change by an average of 2.4% from one year to the next, while under the old method the rates changed by an average of 6.5%.

Levels of variation among rates in each area, as indicated by the standard deviation measure, are also listed for LWDA's in the last column of Table A-1. Note that those areas with the highest average rates also tended to have greater variation or spread among rates. Note also that the average level and spread of rates in each LWDA was estimated with more than 200, and in a few cases over a thousand rate observations. Thus these parameters are estimated with a high level of precision.

The next step involves estimating the typical patterns among rates of varying facility type, age group, and rate type, while holding constant the area effects measured above. This estimation was done using one model for Licensed Centers that included independent predictor variables for each of the eight combinations of age group and full-day vs. part-day rate. A second model was used to estimate these parameters for all homes combined, but in addition to the eight variables, a ninth variable was included that coded for whether it was a Licensed or Registered Home. Results of this estimation are shown in Table A-2. In this case the typical rates are shown in standard deviation units. Thus the first row of Table A-2 can be interpreted to mean that full-day infant rates tend to be almost a full standard deviation higher than the average rate.

⁴ Figures in bold indicate totals including rates added from the prior year's survey, as described in the text, while the figures in parentheses are the numbers from the prior year.

Note that in almost all cases the number of observations in Table A-2 is more than sufficient for estimating the patterns among rates to a high degree of precision. The only exceptions to this are for certain categories of part-day care in homes. As discussed in the analysis and trends section of the main paper, declining shares of facilities offering part-day care are responsible for the low numbers of rates in these categories. As a solution to this shortfall, the number of rates in six of these categories was bolstered by including six rare categories of part-day home rates from the 2009 survey, adjusted with an inflation factor to make them comparable to 2010 rates. These six categories are shown in Table A-2 with the total number of observations in bold, and the number incorporated as estimates from 2009 rates in parentheses. With these additions, this should be just enough to estimate stable rates.

Finally, the 28 area effects from Table A-1 are recombined with the 24 rate type effects from Table A-2 to estimate the parameters (mean and standard deviation) of the distributions of all 672 categories of care in the full report. Using these parameters together with known properties of normal distributions, one can then estimate percentiles of the rate distributions for all categories of care. These estimates have the interesting property that the mean is also equal to the median. On the whole, the resulting percentile estimates were found to be much more stable over time, in comparison to estimates made for small areas using the methodology of prior market rate surveys.

SECTION 1 - Introduction and Screener

Ask for the Director.

Hello. My name is _____ and I'm calling from the University of Texas at Austin. I am calling in reference to a letter we mailed you about the 2010 Child Care Market Rate Survey. What we're doing is trying to collect information on how much you charge and how the day care runs. The information collected will possibly help determine the rates paid by the child care subsidy system for the care of children in low income families. Would you be willing to participate in the survey?

If the respondent is reluctant, you may mention any of the following:

- The survey will only take about 5 or 6 minutes of your time.
- Would there be a better time to call you back? Maybe early in the morning, during naptime or in the evening?
- Your center was randomly chosen to be included in this study. All your responses are strictly confidential, and if you don't feel like answering a particular question, just let me know. Remember, the interview should take about 5-6 minutes. Is this a good time for you?
- If you choose to participate, we will send you the results of the survey for your area when our survey is completed (free of charge).

If yes: Thank you. Let's go ahead and start. If you need to hang up at any time during the interview, just let me know and I can call you back at your convenience.

If finally “no”: Thank you. Choose the right call disposition and proceed to the next piece of sample.

Please ensure that you thank the provider regardless of whether they choose to participate in this survey or not; we will probably need to call them back for future surveys so building a good report is important.

Q1_1 Is your facility any of the following:

(If the respondent answers "yes" to any of the following question, they are ineligible so you may end the interview by: "Thank you, this is all the information I needed today" and select the call disposition: Ineligible/Terminated Not Qualified (indicate the reason))

NOTE: Facilities offering regular after-school programs are eligible

- 1) Only a drop-in care center not offering regular child care or after-school care?
- 2) A school, nursery school or kindergarten not offering regular child care or after-school care?
- 3) A Head Start program?
- 4) Offering only part-time care (less than 6 hours per day or less than 5 days per week) and not any regular after-school care?
- 5) Offering care at no cost to the parents (completely free)?
- 6) A facility only offering summer camps?

SECTION 1 - Introduction

Hello. My name is _____ and I'm calling from the University of Texas at Austin. I am calling in reference to a letter we mailed you about the 2010 Child Care Market Rate Survey. What we're doing is trying to collect information on how much you charge and how the day care runs. The information collected will possibly help determine the rates paid by the child care subsidy system for the care of children in low income families. Would you be willing to participate in the survey?

If the respondent is reluctant, you may mention any of the following:

- The survey will only take about 5 or 6 minutes of your time.
- Would there be a better time to call you back? Maybe early in the morning, during naptime or in the evening?
- Your center was randomly chosen to be included in this study. All your responses are strictly confidential, and if you don't feel like answering a particular question, just let me know. Remember, the interview should take about 5-6 minutes. Is this a good time for you?
- If you choose to participate, we will send you the results of the survey for your area when our survey is completed (free of charge).

If yes: Thank you.

Let's go ahead and start. If you need to hang up at any time during the interview, just let me know and I can call you back at your convenience.

If finally "no" Thank you. Choose the right call disposition and proceed to the next piece of sample.

Please ensure that you thank the provider regardless of whether they choose to participate in the survey or not; we will probably need to call them back for future surveys so building a good rapport is important
